ne Vatican Museum at Rome I recently saw two magnificent statues One was Damoxene, the other raised in his honor, while Damoxene was banished.

This was an extreme instance. But the ancient boxers were often seriously bruised and cut. The old statues all show broken noses and crumpled ears. It was a great jump from the caestis to the bare fists of the London prize ring rules. It was a greater jump from that to the big, soft gloves used in the ring to-day. It fact, modern boxing is as harmless as it is invigorating and useful.

In England every school and college has its boxing tournaments. Boxing should be taught to every boy in America as a means of self-defense. The use of the fist, gloved or ungloved, is far more manity than the use of the kinife or the boot heel. The practice under fair ring rules takes away every inclination to foul and brutal fighting.

FIGHTERS MEET ON ROLLERS TO-NIGHT GRISCOM TROPHY

Dead as the law which formed you to put a pot of gerannims in your window on a dull Sunday.

And under these circumstances it would be a very good thing to pass whativer laws may be necessary to restrict the game, and let it go on. The people will have what they want some people will have what they want some private fights all over the Stars, and these are quite different from the well regulated affairs held in public.
